

Institute for Rational-Emotive Therapy

45 East 65th Street, New York, New York 10021 (212) 535-0822

June 18, 1991

To Whom It May Concern:

This letter is to note that I have worked with Dr. Walter J. Matweychuk during the past five years, in the course of his psychological activities at our Institute. First, he was a Fellow of the Institute for a couple of years. And for the last several years, has been one of our graduate senior therapists.

During the time that Dr. Matweychuk has been here, I have directly supervised a good deal of his individual and group therapy and have done work with him in several of our regular workshops for the public. He is also one of our main supervisors, and supervises the work of the people that we train to do rational-emotive therapy.

In the course of his psychological work here, I have always found Dr. Matweychuk to be exceptionally intelligent, hardworking, and reliable. He does very well as an individual and group therapist, and he is able to conduct excellent workshops in rational-emotive therapy. He is also one of our very best supervisors.

On the basis of my collaborative work with Walter, I would not hesitate to recommend him for any kind of a psychological position including: group and individual therapy, supervision, workshops, and teaching and research. He is especially good in a supervisory capacity, and would do exceptionally well in any position where he would teach and supervise other psychotherapists.

Sincerely,

Albert Ellis, Ph.D.
President